Judas rejected Jesus, his leader and prophet, and helped those who were rejecting Jesus by betraying Him to them for 30 pieces of silver. When Jesus was condemned, Judas realized that he was guilty of innocent blood. He tried to return the money, but the worthless leaders scorned him instead of helping him. As a result he threw the silver into the temple sanctuary, and went out to an irreparable and ugly end. The Jewish leaders then took that silver and used it to buy a Potter's Field, which was - tragically - the same field in which Judas died.
