How Should We Worship? – New Covenant Worship

New and Old

|            | Because in the New Testament the covenant has changed, therefore some of the basic covenantal forms  |
|------------|--|
| (          | of worship have also changed (or, better, have been).  |
|            | 1. Altar/sacrifice (Heb. 13:10-12)   |
|            | 2. Temple (Jn. 1:1-4, 14; 2:19-21; Col. 1:19; 2:9)   |
|            | 3. Priesthood (Rom. 8:34; Heb. 7:11-28; 9:14, 24; 10:12)   |
| ä          | The newness of New Covenant worship is seen not only in external form and substantive fulfillment, but also in the of worshipers who, because of their union with Christ, now worship in spirit and in truth (cf. 1 Pet. 2:5).  1. John 4:23–24 — Jesus said to her, "an hour is coming, and now is, when the true worshipers will worship the Father in spirit and truth; for such people the Father seeks to be His worshipers. God is spirit, and those who worship Him must worship in spirit and truth."  2. Philippians 3:3 — [W]e are the true circumcision, who worship in the Spirit of God and glory in Christ Jesus and |
|            | put no confidence in the flesh.  |
| C. 7       | Temple worship must still be by the covenantal,  |
|            | communal, and dialogical nature of worship.  > Under the New Covenant, God is present with His people gathered for worship in and through His Worship is as it has always been the response of God's people to His revelatory initiative as they and call upon His name.   |
| The Par    | rts of New Covenant Worship  |
| The Lo     | rd's Supper  |
| A. ]       | Because worship is covenantal, it is right that the covenant meal should be observed weekly.  This cup is the new covenant in My blood; do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of Me." "This is My body which is for you; do this in remembrance of Me" (1 Cor. 11:24-25).  |
| В. '       | "In remembrance"   |
|            | 1. The point is not simply mental recollection, but rather that exercise of the mind and the heart that  |
|            | is itself the whole-hearted response to what is remembered.  |
|            | <ul> <li>2. To remember the name of the Lord is, therefore, to Him.</li> <li>a. Exodus 3:15 — God, furthermore, said to Moses, "Thus you shall say to the sons of Israel, '[Yahweh], the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, has sent me to you.' This is My name forever, and this is My memorial-name to all generations."</li> <li>b. Exodus 20:24 — You shall make an altar of earth for Me in every place where I cause My name to be</li> </ul>   |
|            | remembered, I will come to you and bless you.  c. Psalm 102:12 (Ps. 30:4; 97:12; 135:13) — You, O Yahweh, abide forever, and Your memorial-name ["Your name by which You are remembered/worshiped"] to all generations.  |
|            | d. Psalm 45:17 — I will cause Your name to be remembered in all generations; therefore the peoples will give You thanks forever and ever.   |
|            | 3. To partake of the Lord's Supper is to engage in a covenantal act of   |
|            | "As often as you drink it" means "every time you drink it." The assumption is that we will want to be "remembering" and worshiping Jesus in this way as often as we are gathered for covenantal worship.   |
| D. 7       | The Lord's Supper epitomizes the dialogical nature of worship.   |
| - • | 1. The Lord's Supper is a visual that God speaks to us (accompanied by the   |
|            | written/spoken word) and that we hear and apprehend by faith (1 Cor. 11:23-26).  |

- 2. In the Lord's Supper, God assures us that since we have been made partakers of Christ through faith (cf. 1 Cor. 10:16), we now have a spiritual and eternal life that is being nourished within us unto the resurrection (cf. Jn. 6:22-59).
- 3. We respond to this word that God speaks by partaking of the meal with thanksgiving (prayer).
  - a. "Do this in remembrance of Me."
  - b. Luke 22:17, 19 (cf. Mat. 26:26-27; Mk. 14:22-23; 1 Cor. 11:24) And when He had taken a cup and given thanks, He said, "Take this and share it among yourselves" ... And when He had taken some bread and given thanks, He broke it and gave it to them, saying, "This is My body which is given for you; do this in remembrance of Me."
- E. The Lord's Supper epitomizes the communal nature of worship.
  - > 1 Corinthians 10:17 (cf. 11:28-29) Since there is one bread, we who are many are one body; for we all partake of the one bread.

| F. | A biblical theology of worship w   | vill help us to see that the Lord's Supper, as the "remembrance" of |

|    | Jesus, is in a very real sense the | act of all New Covenant temple worship.                             |

Baptism

- A. Baptism is covenantal insofar as without the New Covenant revelation of the Triune God there could be no such thing as baptism.
  - ➤ Matthew 28:18–20 And Jesus came up and spoke to them, saying, "All authority has been given to Me in heaven and on earth. Go therefore and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the age."
- B. Baptism is dialogical insofar as it is simultaneously a visual gospel ______ that God speaks to us (accompanied by the written/spoken word) and a sign of our calling on His name.
  - 1. In baptism, God assures us that He washes away our sins and makes us clean (Acts 22:16) and that He joins us to Christ in His death and resurrection (Rom. 6:3-4; Gal. 3:27; Col. 2:12).
  - 2. We respond to this word that God speaks by calling on His name.
    - a. Acts 22:16 Get up and be baptized, and wash away your sins, calling on His name.
    - b. Peter equates baptism with "an appeal to God for a good conscience" (1 Pet. 3:21).
- C. Baptism is communal insofar as Paul says that all true believers are united by the Spirit in "one baptism" (Eph. 4:1-6) and that "by one Spirit we were all baptized into one body" (1 Cor. 12:12-13).
  - In the baptism of a new believer the members of the congregation are not simply spectators or witnesses, but participants as they see and hear afresh God's Gospel word to them and as they respond to that word by always calling on His name.

The Reading and Preaching of the Word

- A. The responsive nature of worship means that temple worship should be centered around the reading and preaching of the Word. This is confirmed in the New Testament not only by principle (cf. John 1:1-18; Acts 11:14; Phil. 2:16) and precedent (cf. Acts 2:1-42; 6:4; 1 Cor. 4:17; Jm. 3:1-2), but even by explicit command and precept (cf. Mat. 28:18-20; 1 Tim. 2:11-15; 3:2; Titus 1:7-9; Gal. 6:6).
  - 1. 1 Timothy 4:13–16 (cf. 1 Tim. 3:14-15) Until I come, give attention to the public reading of Scripture, to exhortation and teaching. Do not neglect the spiritual gift within you, which was bestowed on you through prophetic utterance with the laying on of hands by the presbytery. Take pains with these things; be absorbed in them, so that your progress will be evident to all. Pay close attention to yourself and to your teaching; persevere in these things, for as you do this you will ensure salvation both for yourself and for those who hear you.
  - 2. 1 Timothy 5:17 The elders who rule well are to be considered worthy of double honor, especially those who work hard at preaching and teaching.

- B. Insofar as a man is preaching to other men and women, we may recognize a horizontal element in preaching. However, insofar as the pastor/teacher is called to speak "as one who is speaking the "(1 Pet. 4:11; cf. Eph. 4:11), we may see that preaching is wholly in accord with the vertically dialogical nature of worship.
- C. There are significant implications here for what preaching is and what preaching should look like.

Prayer

- A. Since, by definition, worship is to call upon the name of the Lord, prayer is an integral part of temple worship. This is confirmed in the New Testament not only by principle (cf. Mat. 21:13 & Acts 16:13; Rom. 10:12-14) and precedent (cf. Acts 1:14; 2:42; 1 Cor. 14:13-15), but by explicit command and precept (cf. Eph. 6:18-19; Col. 4:2-3; 1 Thess. 5:25; 2 Thess. 3:1; Jude 20-21).
  - ➤ 1 Timothy 2:8 (cf. 1 Tim. 3:14-15) Therefore I want the men in every place to pray, lifting up holy hands, without wrath and dissension.
- B. Because prayer is our response to the revelation of God in His word, therefore our prayers (particularly in temple worship) should be saturated with the truths of Scripture.
  - 1. This means that leading in public prayer should be by default a teaching and admonishing of others (cf. Eph. 1:15-23; 3:14-19; Phil. 1:9-11; Col. 1:9-12; 2 Thess. 1:11-12).
  - 2. "Because the Lord's Day worship service is a [corporate] service, the prayers in those services are of necessity [corporate] and partake of the qualities of [corporate] ordinances. This means that public prayer will differ from private prayer in both its subject matter and its aim. Namely, public prayer must edify the [body]. Prayers offered in public are audible, not silent, and must be intelligible because they aim at not personal but public edification. Their purpose is to bless both God and the congregation. There are two audiences, one on earth and one in heaven. This is precisely the Apostle Paul's point in 1 Corinthians 14:14-19. If one prays 'in the spirit' (whatever exactly that means) so that one cannot be understood, the prayer may be a sincere expression of thanksgiving, but (and here is the crucial point) 'the other person is not edified' (14:17). Better are five intelligible words that may 'instruct others' than 'ten thousand words in a tongue' (14:19). Public prayer, while addressed to God, is for public edification and instruction. It is another kind of pulpit speech, closely related to preaching... Because faith comes by hearing the word of God (Rom. 10:17), the use of scriptural language and allusions in prayer was understood to be of critical importance. The congregation will be edified as Scripture-enriched, impassioned prayers are offered in [corporate] worship' (Johnson and Duncan).

Congregational Singing

- A. Singing may take either the form of prayer directed to God or of a proclamation of biblical truth directed to the congregation or both at the same time (the dialogical nature of worship).
  - 1. Ephesians 5:19 [Be] filled with the Spirit, speaking to one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody with your heart to the Lord.
  - 2. Colossians 3:16 Let the word of Christ richly dwell within you, with all wisdom teaching and admonishing one another with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with thankfulness in your hearts to God.
- B. The songs we sing to God and to the Lord are at the same time teaching and admonishing and speaking to others with the word of Christ. This means that congregational singing fulfills entirely and naturally Paul's directives in Ephesians and Colossians.
  - 1. We could translate more literally: "I want you all to be speaking to yourselves and I want you all to be teaching and admonishing yourselves with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs [as you all sing with thankfulness in your hearts to the Lord]."
  - 2. In his correspondence with the emperor Trajan, Pliny the Younger (c. 100 AD) says this about the practice of the early Christians: "It was their habit on a fixed day [Sunday] to assemble before daylight and recite by turns [responsively or antiphonally] a form of words [a hymn?] to Christ as a god."

The Congregational "Amen"

- A. The congregational "Amen" is theologically appropriate in light of the communal and dialogical nature of worship. It is biblically appropriate in light of the following examples:
  - 1. 1 Chronicles 16:36 Blessed be the Lord, the God of Israel, from everlasting even to everlasting. Then all the people said, "Amen," and praised the Lord.
  - 2. Nehemiah 8:6 Then Ezra blessed the Lord the great God. And all the people answered, "Amen, Amen!" while lifting up their hands; then they bowed low and worshiped the Lord with their faces to the ground.
  - 3. Psalm 106:48 Blessed be the Lord, the God of Israel, from everlasting even to everlasting. And let all the people say, "Amen."
  - 4. 1 Corinthians 14:16 [I]f you bless in the spirit only, how will the one who fills the place of the ungifted say the "Amen" at your giving of thanks, since he does not know what you are saying?

| В. | The congregational "Am | en" ought to be a joyful expression of agreement and of wholehearted |

- union with Christ.
  - a. 1 John 1:3 What we have seen and heard we proclaim to you also, so that you too may have fellowship with us; and indeed our fellowship is with the Father, and with His Son Jesus Christ.
  - b. When the early believers devoted themselves to "the fellowship," they did so by gathering to listen together to the apostles' teaching, to break bread together (the Lord's Supper), and to engage in "the prayers" together.
- 3. Because all of the prescribed elements of worship (fellowship with God) are engaged in communally, the result of this worship is by default a unique and powerful experience of the fellowship that we have with one another.
- B. Writing an apology for (or a defense of) Christianity in the middle of the second century, Justin Martyr gives the following description of early Christian worship:
  - > "And on the day called Sunday, all who live in cities or in the country gather together to one place, and the memoirs of the apostles or the writings of the prophets are read, as long as time permits; then, when the reader has ceased, the president verbally instructs, and exhorts to the imitation of these good things. Then we all rise together and pray, and, as we before said, when our prayer is ended, bread and wine [mixed with] water are brought, and the president in like manner offers prayers and thanksgivings, according to his ability, and the people assent, saying Amen; and there is a distribution to each, and a participation of that over which thanks have been given [the eucharistic elements], and to those who are absent a portion is sent by the deacons."
- C. Fifteen hundred years after Justin Martyr, the London Baptist Confession offered this summary description of the various parts of religious worship:
  - ➤ "The reading of the Scriptures, preaching, and hearing the word of God, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms, hymns, and spiritual songs, singing with grace in our hearts to the Lord, [and "prayer... with thanksgiving"]; as also the administration of baptism, and the Lord's Supper, are all parts of religious worship of God, to be performed in obedience to Him, with understanding, faith, reverence, and godly fear; moreover, solemn humiliation, with fastings, and thanksgivings, upon special occasions [cf. Acts 13:1-3], ought to be used in an holy and religious manner."
