Disappearing Medical Journal Articles

Like many doctors, Dr. Scott Jensen has come under fire for daring to speak out against the official medical narrative related to COVID. At first, he went along with at least part of the accepted narrative related to COVID. He eventually woke up, admitted he'd been wrong, then did an about face on his own industry's accepted narrative. For that, the medical elite have come down on him, but he continues to fight against that tyranny. Here's a short video he published regarding the problem of the disappearing articles from medical journals. [1] Why are these articles simply being removed?

The powers that be refuse to let up and it seems clear that they will likely push for another lock-down due to another plandemic. Will you comply? Will you submit to the power elite's objective to gain full control over you, your words, what you eat, where you can go, and even what you might think (if possible)? Unfortunately too many will do just that.

The division in society is nearly complete and thoroughly entrenched. If there is another lockdown, most people who fell for it last time will also fall for it again because fear is a great motivator. No one wants to die. No one wants to become sickened by an illness that can potentially kill. So, 90% of the population ran out and got at least one CV jab. Over 70% got both and fewer getting the booster. Some people are still getting more boosters though. On top of this, too many people still wear masks in spite of the data from studies that proves masks are not only not effective, but harmful to the wearer. [2]

BlackRock's Corrupt Policies Exposed

Not sure if folks have seen the latest from James O'Keefe and his OMG company, but it's a doozy, yet it's not really surprising to many of us who already know that BlackRock is one of the richest corporations in the world, owns a ton of things, including Pfizer and exercises tremendous control. [3] The goal of corporations like BlackRock is to become as rich as possible in order to leverage people, especially politicians, and heads of corporations.

The revelations in the video are eye-opening with one thing standing out for me. In the undercover video, the recruiter from BlackRock (who has since deleted his LinkedIn account, says, "the fix is in.") What that tells me is that BlackRock has enough wealth and power to buy politicians, own a ton of corporations and do what they can to literally destroy democracy (or in the USA's case, a Constitutional Republic), in order to help gain control of the world. This wealth and power allows them to create their own laws, completely bypassing the federal and even state governments of the USA where needed.

The video informs us exactly how arrogant the ultra rich are, like CEO of BlackRock, Larry Fink. Here's another take on BlackRock that makes for interesting reading. [4] The goal appears to be nothing short of world domination, which will result in an enslaved humanity with no freedom to speak or even think what we want. China's social credit score system will be ushered in throughout the world, effectively silencing anyone who wants to eat.

Moreover, war is great for business according to the recruiter! We knew that and as I've stated previously, Trump's unpardonable sin was that he is not a Neocon and doesn't want the USA in anymore wars. Ron DeSantis appears to be a Neocon, so the power elite "may" allow him to win the GOP race for the White House. Notice though how many people who seemed to support Trump now stand fully against him. That means they are neoccons, who would opt for war. War is money.

Trump, on the other hand, would have brought peace between Ukraine and Russia but peace doesn't pay the bills or make people wealthy. War does that and who cares if people die during war? Two birds with one stone - making more money and reducing the population of the planet - is a good way to go for the power elite.

I've said it before, but it seems these power elite cannot be content with just being exceedingly wealthy. They must reach for the final frontier and gain full control of everything on the planet. There's nothing beyond that and achieving total dominance proves to them they are gods. This is clearly a satanic mindset because it is exactly what Satan envisioned in his five "I will" statements in Isaiah 14. To people like Fink, Schwab, Gates and a host of others, wealth is good, not for simply enjoying it and doing something good with it, but for granting them power to control us. The more wealth, the greater the desire for and ability to control people and nations.

I imagine it must be pretty heady to be in the position where you can go anywhere you want, hobnob with leaders of nations, essentially be above the law and help create policies/laws that the world must obey (not the elite), and essentially do the things that make you believe you are a god. How is this not satanic?

Unless the Lord intervenes, it clearly means that the world will be thoroughly overcome with evil and bring global society to the door of the coming Tribulation. We can give into the fear of what lies ahead or we can simply see it for what it is - warning signs that inform us - and do what we can to mitigate the effect of what is coming. Huge corporations are currently downsizing by closing stores, laying off employees and taking other cost-cutting measures to save a dollar. If this continues or even speeds up, it will create at the very least a trickle down series of downturns and at worst, possibly an avalanche of downturns, which will leave no one untouched by the fallout. Charles Hughes Smith goes into some detail regarding this problem, including what we may see in the near to far future and it's not pretty, in his article, The Coming Crisis of Cities: Reinvention or Bankruptcy. [5]

Ignoring the Obvious

The corruption continues unabated without justice. Here's an audio recording of a phone call (from 2018), with Hunter Biden talking with Walmart CEO Greg Penner, which technically involves a "soft coup" to take Donald Trump down. [6] Speaking of Hunter Biden, you've no doubt heard that he pleaded guilty to several non-felony crimes and got less than a slap on the wrist with absolutely no jail time, but merely probation. It simply proves again how corrupt the system is if you're a solid Leftist and your dad's president. Unfortunately for Trump, he is not a Leftist, so does not fall under their protective cover. That and the fact that he is not Neocon, as previously noted, puts him at odds with most in DC.

So even though Hunter had possession of a gun while being a drug user, no felony was charged. Of course, if you're not Hunter and you did the same thing, there would be a felony. Hunter was also an "influence peddler" apparently to other countries, [7 readers should be aware that opening the link will reveal information that may offend some readers] which was treasonous or at least seditious, and should've been treated according to the law. Instead, nothing was done. Probation?

In the meantime, Trump has been arrested, handcuffed, perp-walked and indicted for having classified documents in his possession. So did Mike Pence. So did Joe Biden when he was VP. So did Hillary Clinton. Only the president has authority to have classified documents. For doing that, the DOJ wants to imprison him for hundreds of years and already the judge in the case is limiting Trump's attorneys and placed a gag order on Trump.

Yet, if you go on Twitter, you'll consistently read many who agree with what is happening to Trump and also agree that what happened to Hunter was "fair." Tucker Carlson has something to say about it and I love the way he pokes the Left in their collective eyes. [8]

Oh, by the way, this article asks the question most seem to avoid: Are You Ready for a Real Recession? [9] by Charles Hughes Smith (again). There's a way out at least for individuals who see the problem and redirect themselves and the same author provides the information in a book he wrote: Self-Reliance in the 21st Century. [10] Globalization will collapse eventually. What will you do when it does? All of this is made possible by an increase in Satan's direct involvement in the lives of people easily manipulated to do evil things for their own selfish gain.

I was reading through Psalms 96 - 102 this morning and repeatedly, there is mention of the Lord's return to this world to bring judgment and justice. It's not difficult to see why both are needed and those who love the Lord also love His appearing. We long for the time when this world will be released from the stronghold Satan has on it.

In the meantime, wouldn't it be something if we Christians spent as much time desiring to grow in our fear of (offending) the Lord as much as we spend time trying to figure out what every sign and bit of info means for the future?

Teach me Your way, O Lord;
I will walk in Your truth;
Unite my heart to fear Your name.

Scripture verses like the one above from Psalms 86:11 should be the most important aspect of our Christian lives. Instead, we are too focused on things we cannot change and don't need to know. It is enough to know that if we have salvation, we will spend eternity with Christ. It is enough to know what the Bible teaches about end times. It doesn't appear to me that Jesus, Paul or others spent all their energies on end times events. They mentioned it and in some cases, provided details of those events, but in the end, their goal was to help Christians live better lives, lives that brought glory to God.
