- I. Pray for the Open Door of Ministry
- II. Prepare for Queries from the Unconverted
- III. Practice Godliness Before the Unconverted
- IV. Engage Socially with the Unconverted

- First, Socially engaging with the unconverted in order to cultivate opportunities to tell the great things God has done for us is something that nearly every Christian can do on some level
- Second, Individual circumstances and personalities will have significant impacts on what interactions work and do not work for both parties
- Third, There are Christians with social skill and ability that will make them stewards with responsibility to use those skills for cultivating opportunities much greater than many of their brothers and sisters
- Fourth, The issue for each to focus on is to assess what we are doing with what we have been given from God, and to honestly challenge ourselves to grow further

- V. Ask Skillful and Gracious Questions to the Unconverted

- VI. Seize Situations of Unusual Providence
