

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).

“Brief Punishment to the Repentant”

Isaiah 27

- I. God will punish Leviathan and then likens His nation, Israel, to a pleasant _____ without any real threat from enemies (27:2-6).

Revelation 19:19-21; 20:1-3

- II. Possibly pointing ahead to the Babylonian exile followed by the permanent destruction of the city of Babylon, the very nature of God’s punishment upon His people differs in _____ and _____ from his punishment on the unrepentant world (27:7-11).

1 Peter 4:17-19

- III. God promises to return to His _____, the Holy Mount, and to bring Israelites back, one by one, to _____ (27:12-13).